RecoverKey

KEY REPLACEMENT PROGRAM

THE DRAMATIC RISING COST OF CAR KEY REPLACEMENT

Internet blogs are rampant with cost claims:

"I lost a key and remote control to our 2005 Nissan Altima (leased). DH called the dealership and they are saying it will cost $350 to replace and reprogram the car. Does this sound right to anyone?"
- www.gardenwebb.com

"Paid $250 in January 2006 to replace one key and one remote. It had to be done at the dealer of course. When I needed a duplicate key to my husband's 1992 Ford, it cost me 6 at a locksmith."
- www.gardenwebb.com

"The Center for Auto Safety says the typical cost of replacing a single so-called Smart Key is more than $150 or roughly 12 times the cost of the average mechanical key. The cost rises into thousands of dollars if the automaker or dealership replaces a vehicle's electronic control module. Some advanced systems are programmed so that the modules are matched to a unique set of keys. If the original keys are lost or damaged, the module also must be replaced."

ZONE | BLUE

What causes that terrible smell in my car?

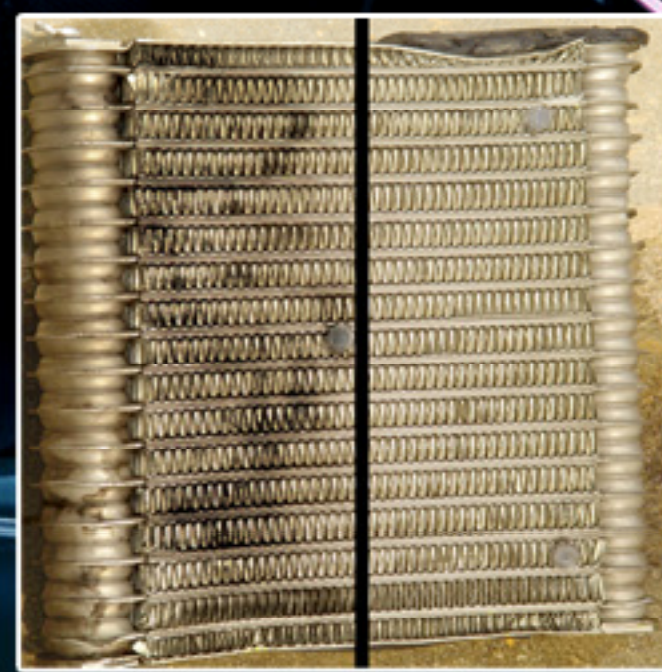

Trapped moisture in your A/C evaporator

A dirty evaporator core causes bad odor and unhealthy air.

Zone Blue cleans the evaporator, inhibits bacteria at the source, reduces moisture buildup, and applies a long-lasting protective coating.

THE RESULT IS CLEAN, HEALTHY AIR.

Untreated

Treated with

ZONE | BLUE

After 6 months, the side of the evaporator treated with Zone Blue stays like new.

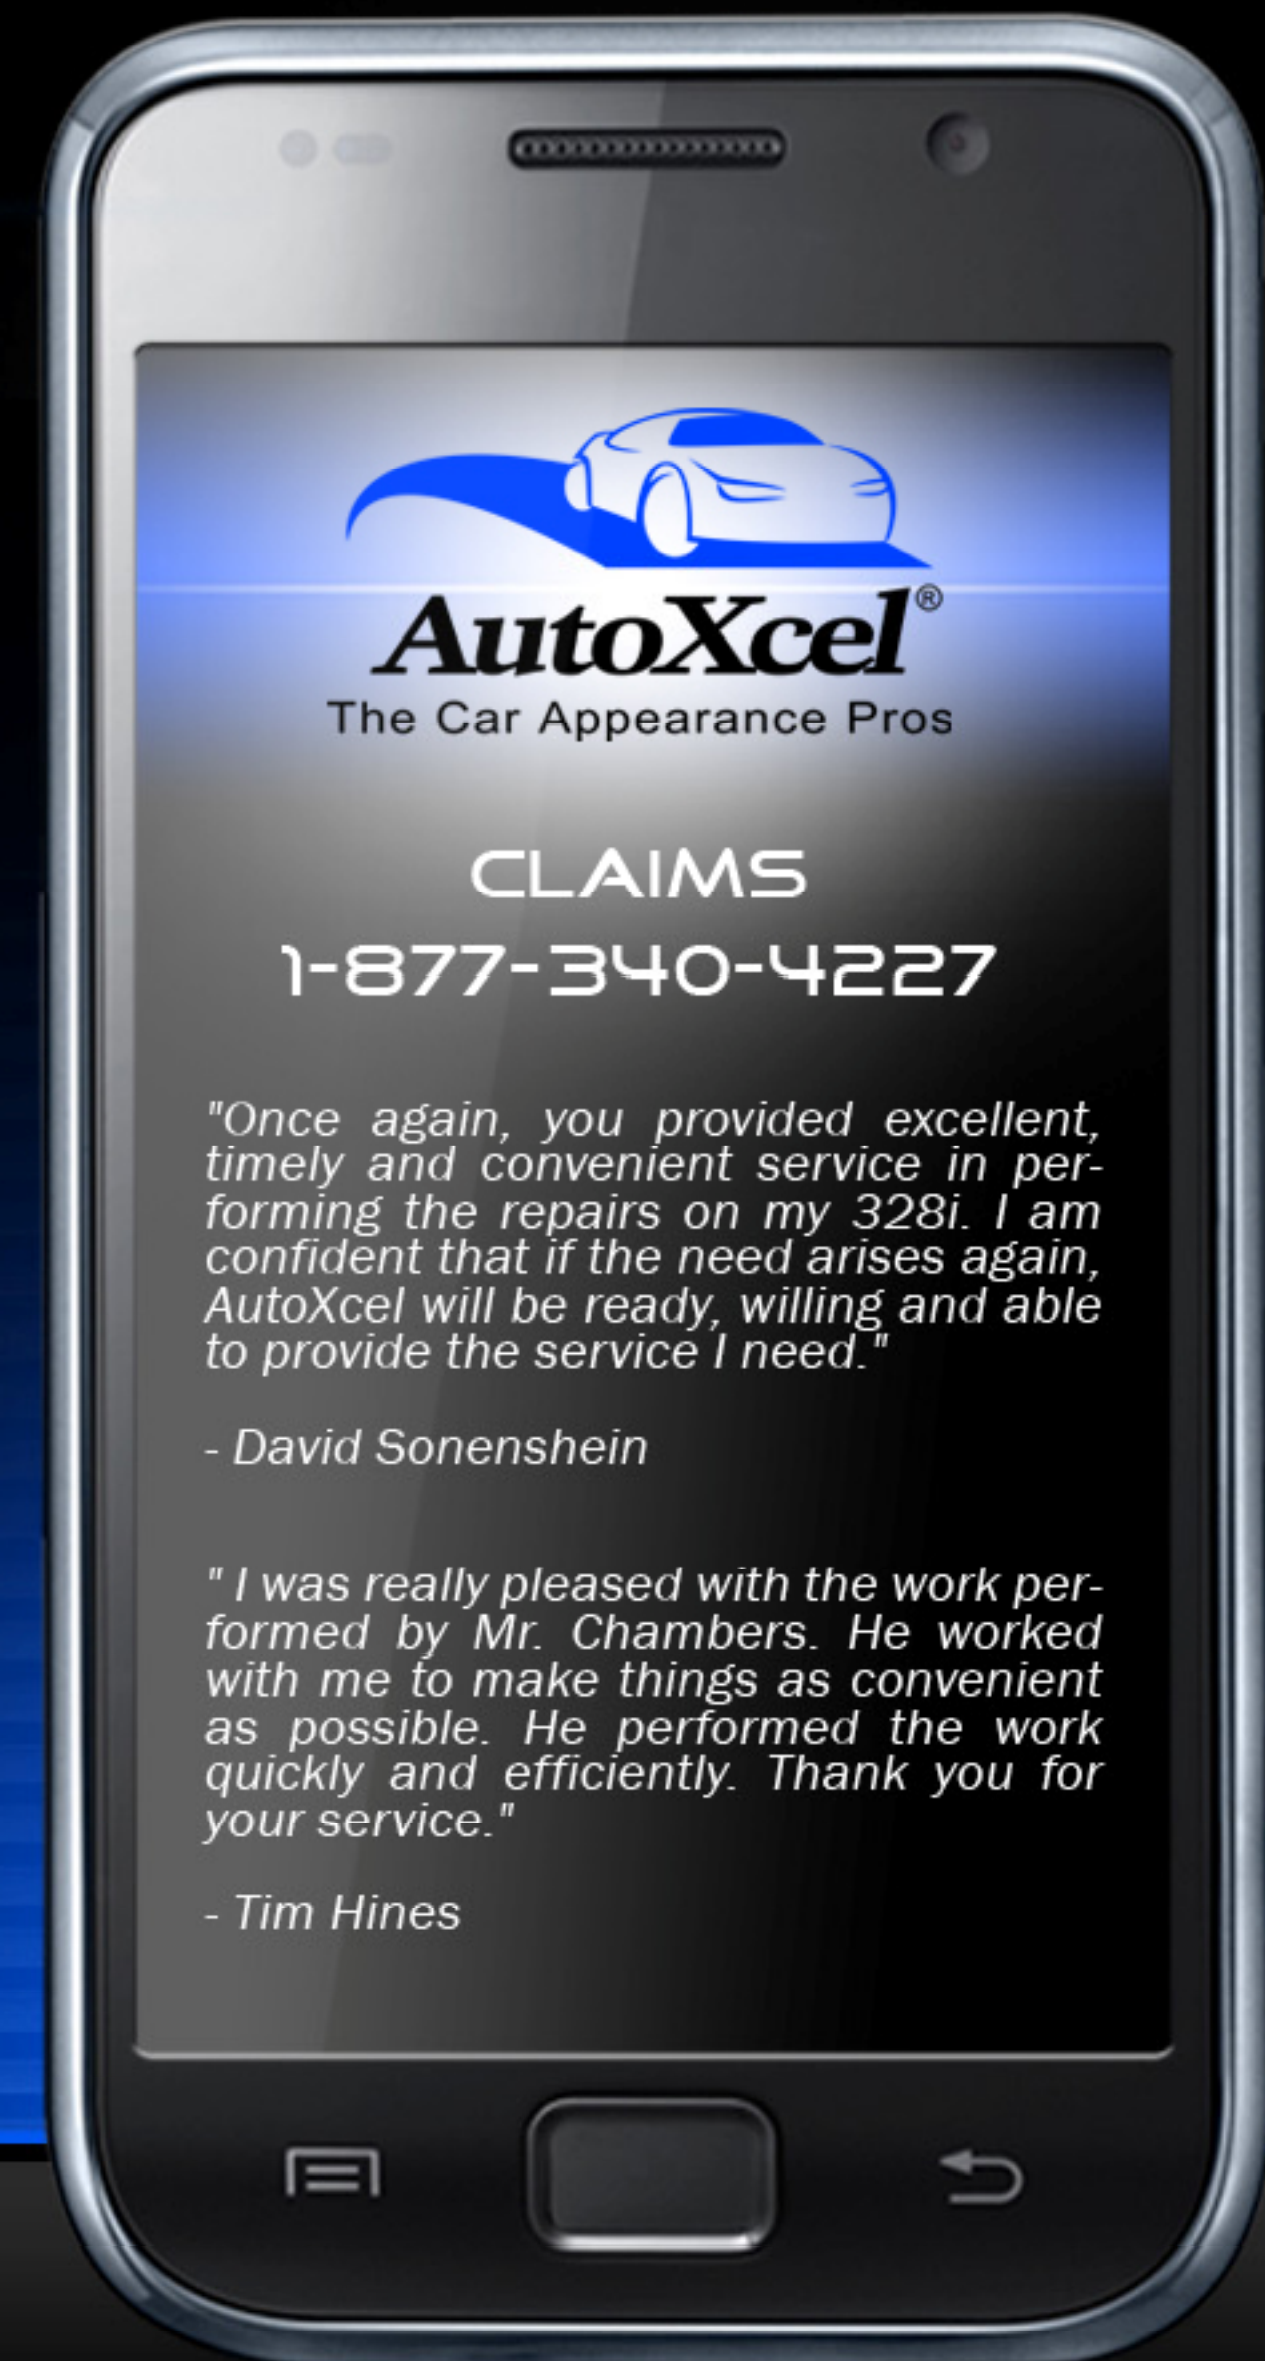

Keep your car healthy

The source of air conditioning odor is often uncontrolled growth of bacteria and other microorganisms in the evaporator area of the A.C system. These microscopic contaminants are naturally present in the air and are constantly being drawn into the evaporator during air conditioner operation. Water condensation that remains in the evaporator provides an ideal breeding ground for odor-causing bacteria, mold and mildew.
